Post-Show Report

Synopsis

The IACSP ASEAN Security Symposium & Awards was jointly organised with the International Association of Counterterrorism and Security Professionals and Fleming with the theme "Trends & Forecasts – Non Traditional Security Threats". The theme of this event reflects the growing threats for the region as well as the challenges that the governments, private sector and community face. The conference brought over 200 security experts from across the world to discuss the evolving threats and exchange views on how to combat political violence and transnational crime and establish effective collaboration between the public and private sector in the region.

Through the eyes of attendees

"The event is highly logistic and nicely organized. Terrorism has become a real threat in our world. The more we can learn about it, the more knowledge and practices we can share on how to deal with it better."

Interpol General Secretariat | Project Manager Maritime Security Sub-Directorate

"This event brought all international experts on technology, cybercrime, and international fraud together. It's good exposure for people in the industry. I think terrorists have improved their tactics and procedure. We need to learn all these tactics in order to know how to deal with them."

IACSP | Director

"The event was spectacular. A very nice assortment of regional experts here, individuals who are directly involved in the subject matter, as well as outside experts. I think it's very important to bring together the represented stakeholders within the region for annuals. It's important for networking, it's important for new ideas, etc."

Terrorism Research Institute | President

"The event was excellent,; it has been really well put together. Public-private partnerships between government, military and the private sector really have to happen through organizations like this one. Because it takes people coming together and creating these venues where we can network with each other and build relationships. So you can bring innovation and the government, and in doing, so even build capacity for the government."

The Intelligence Community | CEO

"It is a very nice event. Very informative. Gives the opportunity both to learn about modern challenges and threats in the terrorism area and also is a good opportunity to get to know colleagues from other places around the world. It's time for us to collaborate, gain new knowledge and tackle new challenges."

Royal Thai Police | Inspector

It was a wonderful gathering of professionals and I enjoyed it thoroughly. It was immaculately arranged and coordinated event.

Director General (Counter Terrorism) Inter Services Intelligence (ISI), Pakistan

All speakers were experts and knowledgeable in their respective fields. I gained a lot and had the opportunity to network with industry experts and simultaneously forge new and lasting friendship. Keep up the good work.

Titus Edon, Security Adviser, PNG Ports Ltd

This event gives an open perspective on trends of terrorist threat. It gives a lot of information on counter terrorism. It's a good platform for networking and also sharing of knowledge.

ABOUT Fleming.

Fleming.

Striving hard to offer our clients "critical business connections," we have grouped our different identities into one powerful brand. As Fleming., our aim is to work as a global unit, ensuring that you have the competitive advantage that comes with choosing a company that's willing to reinvent by offering the best in conferences, trainings, exhibitions and online conferences; because we understand that change is the only constant thing in this universe.

ABOUT IACSP

The International Association for Counter-terrorism and Security Professionals was founded in 1992 to meet the security challenges facing the world as it entered an era of globalization in the 21st century. The IACSP believes that all elements of the world's societies must become better educated about the threats of terrorism as a first step toward developing innovative and effective countermeasures to them. The IACSP is based on the principle that a better informed society will result in a freer one. Responsibility lies not only with the government; the threats inherent in our changing world must be confronted by all segments of society. IACSP organises certified trainings and terrorism awareness programs for public and private sector.
